Biblerite Characters Announce Candidacy

FINAL TABULATIONS at Bibler Bounce headquarters total eight petitions for Professor Snarf, ten nominations for Louise Lush and six hopefuls for Worthal honors.

NOMINATED for Worthal are Dale Wright, Alyric Ray, Joe Kirk, Scott Farmer, Gary Davis and Ron Salsten.

VOTING for the personalities will take place at the studentbody assembly Thursday and final results will be announced during intermission time at the Bibler Bounce Friday.

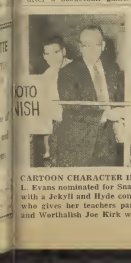
David L. Evans was nominated for Snarf because, "He is the only member of the faculty with a Jekyll and Hyde complex, who, after the bell has rung, races a student into the classroom so he can self-rightously sit at his desk and ask, 'Well, what's your reason for being late?'"

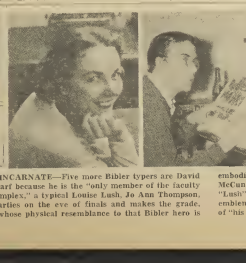
E. A. Butler is another candidate for Prof. Snarf. According to signers of his petition, he is suited for Snarf honors because "of his elegant ways of expressing himself and his kind-hearted open mindedness when a student makes a blunder in class by such expressions of praise for their valiant efforts as, 'If you want me to, I will forget that you ever said that.'"

JOE KIRK is deserving of the exalted position of Worthal because "of his physical resemblance to Worthal. Nowhere else on this campus do features of complete ignorance so completely permeate a face, and his Worthal personality; simple-mindedness in its fullest sense and the joy of living alone in his own little world.

Joanne McCune was nominated for Louise Lush, states her petition, because "there are no two students quite like Joanne. If ever there was a 'Lush' it is Joanne, even though she hides behind the scholarly 'front' of a 'Y' Calcares sweater."

JoAnn Thompson's petition signers nominated her with four reasons why she should be elected Louise Lush. Two of them are: She graduated with high honors in recreation from the University of Utah, and her aspiration is to teach recreation, or to work as a counselor, on a counselor-centered basis in any men's junior college.





CARTOON CHARACTER INCARNATE—Five more Bibler typers are David L. Evans nominated for Snarf because he is the "only member of the faculty with a Jekyll and Hyde complex." A typical Louise Lush, Jo Ann Thompson, who gives her teachers parties on the eve of finals and makes the grade, and Worthalish Joe Kirk whose physical resemblance to that Bibler hero is embodied in its personality—"simple mindedness in its fullest sense." Jeanne McCune, a Louise Lush candidate, qualifies because "if ever there was a 'Lush' it is Joanne, even though she hides behind the scholarly 'front of a YC emblem." Another Snarf candidate is E. A. Butler who was chosen because of "his elegant way of expressing himself and kindhearted open-mindedness?"

Eisenhower Takes Oath Beginning Second Term

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—(AP)—President Dwight David Eisenhower was publicly and solemnly inaugurated Monday for a second term he dedicated to a quest for peace in a world gravely menaced by what he called the "divisive force" of International Communism.

The President called upon the Nation to "counter the threat of those who seek to rule by force." He warned that unless the "spark of hope" is kept glowing for those enslaved by Communism, "there will surely rise at last" the flames of global war.

WHILE SOVIET Ambassador Georgi Zarubin and Hungarian Charge D'Affaires Tibor Zador listened, stone-faced, Mr. Eisenhower hailed Hungary's Freedom Fighters as symbols of "A fierce and mighty force" that, he said, has shaken "the world of international Communism."

A spontaneous roar of applause greeted his tribute to the Hungarians patriots who fought to throw off the Communist yoke. The President said:

"Through the night of their bondage, the unconquerable will of heroes has struck with the swift, sharp thrust of lightning. Budapest is no longer merely the name of a city, henceforth it is a new and shining symbol of men's yearning to be free."

The President's inaugural address, which included an eloquent re-statement of American determination to thwart Communist aggression in the Middle East or elsewhere, was a dramatic climax to the magnificent and poignant ceremonies on Capitol Hill.

HE DECLARED: "We live in a land of plenty, but rarely has this earth known such peril as today." He spoke almost reverently of the sinister power of Communism.

The President said: "The designs of that power, dark in purpose, are clear in practice. It strives to seal forever the gates behind which it has enslaved. It strives to break the ties that unite the free.

"And it strives to capture—to exploit for its own greater power—all forces of change in the world, especially the needs of the hungry and the hopes of the oppressed."

Registration Check Urged

State Highway Trooper Vincent has asked that all out-of-state students who own cars check their registrations.

He observed that registrations from Idaho and Colorado are definitely outdated and should be renewed without delay.

Students from other states are urged to make sure of their license expiration dates.

Rabbi Gumbiner To Speak Today

Rabbi Joseph H Gumbiner will address the studentbody and faculty at today's devotional assembly.

"Background for Crisis in the Middle East," is scheduled as Rabbi Gumbiner's topic. He is speaking through the Adult Chautauqua Society, an organization for disseminating authentic information on Judaism.

He is presently director of the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation at the University of California.

'Barefoot In Athens' To Begin Arena Performance Tuesday

by Valerie Hill

THE BRIGHAM Young University Theatre will produce the second arena production of the year January 22-26 at 8:15 in 250 Arts Building. Admission charge will be $1 per person. Tickets may be had in the Smith ticket office. The play, "Barefoot in Athens," by Maxwell Anderson, depicts the life of Socrates.

As a citizen of Athens, Socrates rebelled against the oligarchy set up by the Spartan invaders and protested the adoption of these somewhat Communistic principles by his fellow philosophers. He perpetuated the theories of free speech and democracy.

BECAUSE his ideas were misunderstood as being revolutionary, he was unjustly sentenced to death. Though he wrote nothing, his teachings are the basis of the writings of both the philosopher, Plato, and Xenophon, the historian. The story begins just prior to Athen's defeat and ends at Socrates death. Professor Winifred Bowers, director of the play has a large cast consisting of the BYU English department to portray the heavy drama associated with the part of the untidy yet brilliant and virtuous Socrates. Opposite him in the role of Xantippe, his wife is Arminta Mathews, wife of lArt department Chairman Conan E. Mathews.

Others in the cast are Rick Johnson, Phoenix, Ariz.; Willard Smith(Bill), Huntley, Wyo Michael Rice, Provo; C Paul Anderson, American Fork, Charles Nackos, Oakland, Calif.; Rae Mona K. Reynolds, Provo; Randy Buchanan, Provo; Joe Kirk, California; Ned Hoopes, Bellflower, Calif.; Don Worsley, Peru, Ind.; Nathan Smith, Wendell, Idaho; Stan Porter, Provo; and Thomas Macauley.

News of Formal Wear Important As Junior Prom Date Nears

by Margaret Hunter

Daily Universe Society Writer

Fabric as well as season, country and personality will influence the formal chosen.

Fashionable fabrics are chiffon, silk, taffeta net, lace, satin, velvet, jersey and crisp nylon. Winter or spring the Fair Lady and the Oriental Italy and Valley look will be factors in picking the choice.

Now popular among the fabrics for this year is chiffon. This combination of silk or nylon gives most the desired feminine formal ensemble.

Basic chiffon for highest in fashion for this winter. It is either used in its fullness or just for panels floating from the side or back of the popular sheath.

Many skirts are of chiffon but have contrasting tops. A heavy gold cotton lace blouse with high neck and three-quarters sleeves is cute with a white chiffon skirt — beautiful and stylish.

Another different combination uses a red chiffon skirt and a red and black wool top.

Since chiffon drapes beautifully a Grecian design is elegant. Draping a pastel chiffon across the shoulders and top and cross-draping the midriff with ties best obtains this effect.

Slacks the exotic color, is a requirement in formal-wear this season. Teaming of black satin slacks, black velvet and fabric with cotton and wool are a popular ways to achieve an exquisite look.

Valentine season will influence the choice of a prom dress of pink chiffon with a red chiffon cummerbund and large streamers down the side will add to the holiday mood.

Taffeta, in a red and white check, also gives the Valentine feeling. A plain top with wide, high neckline and dropped waist gives emphasis to three-tiered skirt.

The Italian influence comes from the use of brightly striped taffeta skirt with a high or scoop necked black jersey or velvet blouse. The Orient brings with it heavy brocades as well as floating silks.

Tops in influence over the formals is the Fair Lady Look. Blue pearls and rhinestones on the front of a blue satin dress is an example of this look." Black brocade used in a skirt with a white silk blouse also comes from this era.

Spring, the coming season, brings in the latest formals. White net is turned toward spring with the use of a large gold rose at the waist and gold leaves on one side of the skirt.

White again is used in a high front neckline and V-backed dress. The heavy pleated skirt is emphasized by a rose satin tucked cummerbund.

BYU Coeds, Band Air Base Guests For Dinner, Dance

"It was lots of fun" "They were very courteous" "I'd like to go again."

These were comments made by some of the 21 Brigham Young University coeds after they returned from a visit to Weidover Air Force Base.

The BYU students and 30 girls from the University of Utah were guests at the base for a dinner and dance. The Y's Men's combo also made the trip to Wendover and furnished music at the dance.

Arrangements for the trip were made through the Student Coordinator's office and the Interhouse Council after an invitation was received from Merlyn Edwards, USO hostess at the base and a former BYU student

Men's Social Units Supplement University's Activity Program

by Deanna Barnum

There are presently nine men's social units on Brigham Young University campus. Like the women's units, they provide activities for those students who wish to supplement the university's social program.

ATHENIAN unit was organized winter quarter of 1952 by 25 men. Purpose of the unit is to be of service to the school and support the activities President is Gary Williamson.

ARGONAUT unit was chartered winter quarter 1953 and reorganized winter quarter 1956. Traditionally the Argonauts were a group of 50 men who sailed on the craft Argo in search of the golden fleece. Ken Byers is president of the unit.

"To promote social activities among men students, develop social graces and meet young ladies" is the purpose of BRIGADIER social unit. It was organized 26 years ago under the direction of Dr. T. Earl Pardoe. President is John Berge, Coalinga, Calif.

GOLD BRICKER unit was organized in May 1917 by a group of 12 army friends who were reunited at BYU after the first world war. Jim Webster is president of the unit.

TAU SIGMA unit originated in 1915. At that time it was known as the Three I's. In it when fraternities were banned from campus the group organized under the name Sigma Motto of the unit is "Unus Uno," which means all and one for all. Tauasa Ah Hemsley, La. is president.

The elite vanguard of the Danish Army set the tradition of VAL HYRIC social unit. It was organized in 1927 by men. Four points of the unit are Service, Scholarship, Sociality and Sportsmanship. President is Jerry Griffith, Beach, Calif.

The name VIKINGS comes from vitality, industry, knowledge, integrity, worthiness, enmity and sincerity.

The unit was organized in 1927. Viking traditions come from mythical Norsemen.

Bell, Salt Lake City, is president of the unit.

Graduates in Engineering Physics Mathematics

Interested in Missile Systems research and development

The technology of guided missiles is literally a new domain. No field of engineering or science offers greater scope for creative achievement.

Research and development at Lockheed Missile Systems Division cover virtually every field of engineering and science and have created new positions for graduates possessing outstanding ability in the following fields:

Electronics
Research and development as applied to missile systems and associated equipment.

Computers
For solution of complex problems and missile guidance.

Systems Engineering
Research and development in missile systems.

Antenna Design
Related to missile guidance.

Communications
In the broad area of information transmission.

Electromechanical Design
As applied to missile systems and related equipment.

Instrumentation
Associated with aerodynamics, physics and electronics.

Physics
Theoretical and experimental aero-physics, upper atmosphere research, optics, nuclear physics and spectroscopy.

Structures
Structural design and analysis of missile systems.

Thermodynamics
Aerodynamic heating and heat-transfer problems.

Aerodynamics
Concerning performance of missile systems.

Dynamics
As related to missile body flight problems.

Operations Research
Applied to tactical weapons operations.

Advanced Study Program
Graduates in Physics, Electrical, Aeronautical and Mechanical Engineering are invited to contact their Placement Officer regarding the Advanced Study Program which enables students to obtain their M.S. Degree while employed in their chosen field.

The complexity of missile systems research and development has created a number of positions for those completing their M.S. and Ph.D. degrees. The positions carry immediate responsibility, commensurate with the advanced academic training and experience required.

Representatives of the Research and Engineering staff will be on campus

Friday, January 25

You are invited to consult your Placement Office for an appointment.

! Frosh Women . . .

Jr. Council Works On Projects

by Karen Curtis
Daily Universe Writer

An active freshman organization is not heard about often is the unior Associated Women Students Council.

The organization is composed 132 freshmen women selected on 100 applicants at the first the school year. These coeds ve hopes for their high school ood of scholarship, activities, erests, willingness to work, d personality.

The council was organized eral years ago. Each year w members are chosen and ir job is to develop leaderip and assist a maximum number of women in developing eir talents and abilities by articipating in school activities. d to help freshmen feel they ve an important part in maining the "Spirit of BYU."

The coeds have carried out their objectives this year by doing such jobs as selling candy suckers during the homecoming festivities. The profit received from this was turned over to the Hungarian Fund.

They helped with both the Preference Ball and the Christmas Charity dress. Two large projects they are now working on are the Sick Hospital entertainment program and the get-acquainted project.

Every Monday evening a different group of twelve women take a program to the hospital and entertain one of the wards.

The other project entails visiting every one of the 1600 freshmen coeds on campus, learning her interests and recording them in a file for future use. This file is for the use of all organizations on campus in choosing their committees.

Plans For New Planetarium, Movie Lot Forseen In Future

New "stars" will soon make their appearance as part of Brigham Young University when two of the newest planned additions to the school are completed.

Extension Division Open On Saturday

Brigham Young University's Extension Division has announced that it is now open evenings until 9 p.m and Saturdays until noon.

Harold Glen Clark, dean of the Adult Education and Extension Services, explained that this added feature was felt necessary because many of the people enrolled in extension classes work during the day and have only evenings and Saturdays free.

The arrangement is first to be effective for six months, with it becoming permanent if there is enough demand, Dean Clark said.

NOTICE

During the past six months many items of personal property have been found on the campus. Those that have been turned in to the University have been held for the owners, but there is now an accumulation of unclaimed articles which the University desires to either return to the rightful owners or otherwise dispose of.

Notice is hereby given to all students, alumni and others that all unclaimed articles now in the possession of the University will be available for inspection and delivery to the rightful owners, upon proof of ownership, at the Security Office at the south end of the Wymount Dining Hall between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. on or before the 1st day of February, 1957.

Notice is further given that all articles held longer than six months and not properly claimed by that date may be disposed of by the University.

The Hollywood-type "star" will appear in the form of a new movie lot and studio for the BYU motion picture department. Sound stages as well as facilities for natural outdoor settings and the latest sound, lighting and color equipment will be main features of the new lot.

Present indications are that the lot will be located on a 13-acre tract under the brow of Canterville Hill, north of Highway 91 and west of Riverside Park.

The other star will be a new observatory or planetarium to be added to the Carl F. Eyring Physical Science Center. Modern construction of aluminum, steel, and glass will be featured in the new structure.

Planning of the new addition is under the direction of J. W. Tippetts, campus planning director, and Fred Markham, architect.

Daily Delivery Task Provides Student With Early Exercises

by Vicki Soha
Daily Universe Writer

DAILY UNIVERSE delivery boy, Darwin Hayes, Georgetown, Ida., states that his job gives him all the exercise he needs.

An English major, Hayes is a transfer student from Utah State College. He served on a mission in West Germany and was released from the armed forces last spring. While in the service, he met his wife Loris, in Albuquerque, N. Mex.

The Brigham Young University language department is what first attracted Hayes to BYU last spring. A missionary companion who was a graduate from BYU was also responsible for his choice of school.

HAYES said that after his service experience, he wanted to work near Latter-day Saint people.

An expectant father, Hayes plans to do graduate work in philology and to teach college.

With journalistic interests only in the various languages and culture of people, Hayes came in contact with the Daily Universe through a ward teaching companion, Dick Hirtzel, Universe business manager last year.

Hayes distributed papers to Heritage Halls during last spring quarter when the Daily Universe was distributed in the evening, and was awarded the job of distribution manager for 1956-57.

MORNING distribution was initiated this school year, and is an advantage, according to Hayes.

Four and five a.m. are regular getting-up hours in the Hayes home.

Every day except Monday deliveries are completed about 7 a.m.

Monday's paper doesn't go to press until 7 Hayes has his schedule arranged to take care of Monday deliveries at 10 a.m.

Hayes delivers 6500 papers on Mondays and 6000 papers on other week days. One thousand more papers are mailed daily.

BECAUSE THE only people he sees are those hurrying to work, the only excitement on the job comes on cold winter mornings when Hayes has to dig his car out of the snow and plow his way around the campus.

Hayes considers this job which gives him a valuable knowledge of the campus, one of the best paid jobs on campus, because it gives him his days and evenings free.

U. Graduate Joins Political Science Faculty At BYU

Byrum Plass is the most recent faculty addition to the political science department.

A graduate of the University of Utah, Plass is replacing Dr. Garth Jones, who is going to Indonesia to work for the U. S. government.

Plass is working for his Ph.D. degree in political science. He teaches Political Science 10 and History 80.

Before coming to BYU he taught junior high school in Carbon County School District and served on a mission to the Netherlands for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Pokes, Lobos Drop Weekend Tilts; Rams Win Twice

Brigham Young University narrowly missed being knocked from the top rung of the Skyline ladder as they were clipped by Utah State 76-75 Friday, but received a tremendous boost from Montana as the Grizzlies nicked Utah 60-48 in Missoula the following night.

Games over the weekend furnished a tight Skyline race even tighter as teams regained the lesser light" rolls refused to fade in the conference rumble seat.

The Colorado Rams, decided underdogs against Denver on the latter's home court, surprised the Pioneers with a 70-62 thumping. It was the Colorado turn to be upset the following night. An Air Force Academy whipped the Rams 70-62.

Wyoming was favored over Idaho State. So, of course, the Cowboys got waxed 69-50.

Denver was favored to whip New Mexico and surprisingly enough they did it, 60-55.

Of the 18 Skyline games played thus far, 14 of them have been won by the home team.

BYU Matmen Post 'Surprise' Win Over Western State 17-13

by Jerry Cunningham

A FIGHTING band of unsung Cougar wrestlers scored a stunning 17-13 upset over Western State's highly favored Coloradoans Friday before one of the sparsest crowds ever to "grace" the George Albert Smith fieldhouse.

The handful of spectators who did turn out, cheered Brigham Young University to its tremendous come-from-behind victory. Down 13-0 after the first three matches, the Cats won five straight decisions for the win.

WESTERN STATE whipped Utah 20-17 the night before.

With BYU leading 14-13, Heavyweight Dave Hanks won a decisive 5-1 decision over Sam Boyd, clinching the Cougar victory.

Western State's Gene Williams, 123, pinned Wesley Packer, BYU, 8:26 into the second period.

Ted Wallich, BYU, decisioned Gene Trapp, WSC, 4-2.

Bill Corn, WSC, pinned Glen Barfuss, BYU, 5:30 into the second period.

Milton Moore, BYU, decisioned Dick Bradfield, WSC, 2-0.

Leflei Davies, BYU, decisioned Norman Alsaure, WSC, 8-2.

Dave Williams, WSC, pinned Wesley Packer, BYU, 8:26 into the second period.

130 Walter Martinez, WSC, decisioned Roger Overson, BYU, 4-0.

137 Bill Corn, WSC, pinned Glen Barfuss, BYU.

147 Milton Moore, BYU, decisioned Dick Bradfield, WSC, 2-0.

155 Leflei Davies, BYU, decisioned Norman Alsaure, WSC, 8-2.

Ted Wallich, BYU, decisioned Gene Trapp, WSC, 4-2.

177 Merrill Glenn, BYU, won by default over Don Krien.

Heavyweight Dave Hanks, BYU, decisioned Sam Boyd, WSC, 5-1.

That's Rich

by Rich Hall

WHAT IS IT about the Skyline Conference that allows a team to play great basketball on its home court, then take to the road and get racked up by the opposition?

This is the question being asked by many a follower of casaba sport in the Rocky Mountain area. Both Brigham Young University and the University of Utah fell victim to the perils the road the past weekend, throwing the race for conference honors into a real scramble.

THIS IS THE Utes' second road loss of the season, and Coach Jack Gardner's quintet has yet to test the pitchin of the Wyoming and Colorado A&M courts Montana not only beat the Utes, but they did it in a fashion that left little doubt in the minds of fans that the Silvertips were the top team on the floor at Missoula Saturday, winning going away, 60-48.

BYU, ON THE other hand, dropped a squeaker, 76-75, to Utah State. The Aggies had already handed Utah its initial setback, and Friday evening made their season a success by getting past the visiting Cougars.

Up until Friday, the Cats were the only team in the conference that had demonstrated any kind of ability to win on the road, having downed both Colorado A&M and Wyoming on what is considered among these parts as the suicide tour in the Eastern section of the Rockies. They still appear as the best road team in the league, with a 2-1 record, and losing that one away game by a single point.

UTAH HAS yet to make that Eastern run, and will have the unenviable task of taking on Wyoming at the end of the season. The Cowboys have not as yet really jelled as a team, and while they do they will be rough.

Denver is another club that must be reckoned with, and both Utah and BYU have to tangle with the Pioneers on their home floor in the mile-high city. Those two away from home wins the Cougars have studied away be high to look as though they could be the deciding factor in the conference race.

ACTUALLY, THE away from home nemisis that seems to elude every conference team on the road this year cannot be chalked up to nervousness on the part of the visiting team, or exceptionally heady play on the part of the hosts.

These factors do play a part, but the real crux of the matter is this: there is no team in the Skyline that could not knock off any other on any given night.

The team that wins consistently away from home will take the conference bunting this year, and up to now BYU is the only team that shows any sort of away from home consistency. But the Cougars have a few more road games left this year, so it is still anybody's race.

Redskin Goes Grizzly Hunting Gets Clobbered, Scalped 60-48

by Mark Murphy

MUCH WEEPING and wailing emitting from Utah's lesser institution to the north may be attributed by some to the recapturing of Brigham Young University's revered Y Bell, or However, most of the blood, sweat and gallons of tears is the direct result of a resounding trouncing handed by Jack Gardner's crew by a mighty Montana aggregation, 60-48.

Despite the Cats' harrowing experience in Missoula, the Redskins remain atop the scrambled Skyline standings, thanks to the Utes' loss.

JACK Gardner's Redskins suffered painfully enough the BYU-Utah State game via radio Friday night, then suffered a severe relapse Saturday night as the Silvertips scalped the Injuns to the glee of 6,500 fans who traveled by special train, bus and covered wagon to witness the slaughter.

The Redskin's quick change squaw was brought about mainly by the crafty maneuvers of Grizzly Coach Cox, ubiquitous master mind of Montana hoop operations.

FAR IN advance, Cox announced that the Skins would be running against the fierce Grizzlies' zone defense. Knowing that the Utes practiced shots until they were blue in the face in the friendly confines of their home court, Bubdently the Indians left the Utah reservation without so much as a whimper and headed where in the wintry wastes of Montana en route to Missoula.

Once the ruse had been accomplished, the Silvertip zone was the iron curtain variety as Utah was forced to play Montana's game throughout the fateful night.

Montana switched to a stiff man to man defense in the second period completely befuddling the bleary-eyed Utes.

Big Russ Sheriff led the Grizzlies to victory, nabbing a good by share of rebounds and gathering 15 points.

Montana is now hot on the trail of BYU, only one game behind.
